WHY WE DO WHAT WE DO

Every single detail of a Tesoro Yachts is measured against our continuing goal:

Assure unforgettable moments on board.

DELIVERING A SINGULAR VISION

Tesoro Yachts was born from the dedication, ambition and sailing experiences of Juan Carlos Olivares and Andrés Martínez.
With the expertise combination of their careers, as international broker of superyachts and maritime international lawyer.
Tesoro Yachts is born.

TECHNOLOGY

NATURAL FIBRE REINFORCEMENT FABRICS

Tesoro Yachts on its aims to promote the maximum sustainability and offer options that respect the environment, its using a revolutionary vegetal material on its molds and pieces from Bcomp's ampliTex™ technical fabrics, made of naturally grown flax, as a reinforcement.

A SPRINT prepreg lamination technique developed by Gurit is being used for these instances. Flax dramatically reduces the overall carbon footprint of the build and works well in conjunction with more conventional advanced composites, which are still used throughout the structure.

CARBON FIBRE

Main parts of the boat, specially the Cullinan T-Top, use the carbon fibre as construction material in order to configure an incredible design where performance is guaranteed offering the biggest one in the market without any kind of supports on the deck.

The Cullinan T-Top with sturdy roof pillars integrated into the bulwarks make a single solid piece integrated with the hull giving an extreme space on the deck and unique stability.

The use of this material start being a construction part of practically all the boat allowing give these unique qualities like strength, durability, thermal stability, and low weight.

QUALITY CONTROL

Each boat is under a hundred points check list inspection during its construction attended by the engineering team assigned for its assembly.

Until its delivery giving to the client a complete certification package where recognized all the parameters taken during the process with an additional report of the sea trial with all the parties involved on it like engines mechanics and electricians.

INSIDE TESORO

INSIDE TESORO

We are pleased to show you how we build the boat of your dreams. For that, we have created “Inside Tesoro”, a series of ten chapters to discover how each of the construction phases and installations are attended by the high level professional staff at Tesoro Yachts.

LOOM SHOP

On the same way each of the boats build by Tesoro Yachts is unique according to the customer configuration, the electrical works to be done are different on each unit needing an individual electrical engineering study before its production start.

Watch the video of Alain Lopez director of the loom shop department we're he explains the process and the technology involved.

FURNITURE SHOP

All furniture elements of the boat are created by our bench joiners and skilled carpenters from elements not seen by the customer through to head linings, bulkheads and of course the furniture, both built-in and free-standing pieces.

Watch the video of Pepe Balsalobre director of the furniture department we're he explains the process and the technology involved.

METAL SHOP

Teams of welders and fabricators within our metal shop manipulate raw materials to produce pristine polished handrails for staircases, pulpits, dining table stands and components for fixtures and fittings throughout the yachts.
Welding is done by hand but must look like it has been done by machine, so the art of welding at Tesoro is to have the ultimate dexterity.

Watch the video of Alain Ricci director of the Metal shoop we're he explains the process and the technology involved.

PAINT SHOP

Tesoro Yachts has an studied paint process that reduces energy consumption at its plant and improves the resistance of the painted surfaces.

The paint is always worked in collaboration with supplier Awl Grip and offers several benefits.

Watch the video of Antonio Henarejos director of the paint department we're he explains the process and the technology involved.

UPHOLSTERY SHOP
